A "Committee of Deputation" in Randolph County

Regarding the Manner in Which the Democrats Deceived Swiss Colonists-How They Were Voted

May 1 -The Committee of Deputation and some of the fine work of the Democ racy has been brought to light. The of Florence, and J. M. Tyre, of Leeds The INTELLIGENCER'S readers of the Swiss colony in this speak nor understand English; therefore the State. They are industrious and peaceable, aim to do right and are wil-ling to believe others as harmless as themselves. Having been taught to obey the law and its officials, it was natr them to believe a State or official would not or could not them. However, on the lat day e, 1888, the Clerk of Randolph of June, 1888, the Clerk of Randolph county came all the way (about 30 miles) to Helvitin, gathered together as many of those Swiss people as he could find and issued to each a paper certifying they had declared their intention to become citizens of the United States. He gave one each to youths who had come to the United States under 6 years old, charging them one dollar apiece. That part of the game was for revenue only.

On September 3, 1888, those san before the Board of Commissioners o the county were induced to go through the farce of becoming duly naturalized. That was in 95 days after they declared These people were bound over to vote oath before the deputation they stated they had done. Their votes were chalthey had done. Their votes were char-lenged on election day (November 6 1888), but the majority of the Board de-cided to receive them, and they were counted with the others and sent to Beverly.

The commotion among these people is great, and they are taking counsel with a view to prosecute. One of their leaders, a witness, has decamped. They are now determined to make all due haste to become citizens and the Democracy will know them not in the future. I have one of the naturalization papers before me while I write this, and will be before me while I write this, and will be very spt to make use of it in due time. Such proceeding is regarded here as disgraceful and the feeling is that the State or Federal government ought to punish such officials.

The law is lenient enough to foreigners without rushing them through to become etitizens in three months.

Every precinct in the State should be looked up. Let us have an honest count and the Democracy will find it has been a corpse in this State since last November. Now that the warm weather is coming, the stench will be unbearable from Washington, based on charges that he had demanded money from distillers, has caused much excitement among internal revenue officers and whisky men. A special agent has been sent here upon the complaint of W. W. Johnson, distiller, that Gauger Goets had demanded $276 a month from him. The agent's report has been sent to Washington, and he refused to give its details. The distillers say it has been a common thing for them to pay gaugers certain sums monthly. Collector Bahop says it is an old custom and had its origin in the commercial gauging which used to be necessary, but which is not now, owing to the adoption of the Government standard by the Chamber of Commerce.

WESTON, W. VA., May 3.-In the history of Lewis county courts nothing has guage that was used to-day in a case in UNEARTHS SOME OF THE FACTS which P. J. Dyer and wife are the plaintiffs and a man named Greenleaf is the defendant. It is one of those peculiar cases in which the attorneys find many technical points to argue, and as there are seven of them employed and each one got to make a few remarks upon the one got to make a few remarks upon the point in question, much time was consumed. It was during the argument of one of these questions that two of the attorneys indulged in language too unchaste to appear in the columns of a newspaper and which would have ended in blows had it not been for their brother attorneys interfering. The wildest excitement prevailed for a few minutes, after which all was in a state of consternation. One of the attorneys immediately asked the pardon of the Court, as well as the one to whom his language was addressed, and the other did not. His Honor, Squire Oliver, will demand him to do this upon the opening of court to-morrow, and if he refuses a heavy fine will be imposed.

Maxwell looked tired and said that bookkeeping was supposed to be about as coldly practical work as a man could do. Mr. Farrell silently ignored this mild protest and suggested that the proper way to get to work would be to ascertain what the estimated revenues would be for the year. As that was done the first thing when the committee met Wednesday night, and as all its calculations sinchave been based on that findling, it was tion of Mr. Parnell was continued before Mr. Parnell testified that he had often reproved Mr. William O'Brien, editor of that appeared in that paper. He had not publicly repudiated the articles benight, and as all its calculations sinchave been based on that finding, it was not deemed advisable to follow out Mr. Ferrell's suggestion. The committee united in explaining to the Fourth ward member that this had been done, and to thoroughly convince him Mr. Maxwell went back and read over the items of the estimated revenue. Mr. Ferrell looked over the mass of figures he had been making and then subsided. The work done last night briefly summarized is as follows: It was ascertained that there will be $110,334 25 (estimated) cause he did not consider that to be the way to affect the alterations he desired ostoflices. He could not, he said, recollect denouncing the outrages between 1878 and 1881. He believed the outrages perpetrated to have been the work of small secret societies. Witness was then asked whether if secret societies advers to the League had existed, and if a vast majority of the people had belonged to League there would not have been ample evidence obtained to convict the perpetrators of the outrages, but parried the question, saying that might or might not have been the case.

members were again present, and as was the case Wednesday night, Mr. Maxwell was about the only practical worker. He was again assisted by Colonel White and President Gruse, of the Second Branch. These gentlemen are experienced bookkeepers, and had the work of preparing the appropriation ordinance been left to them they could probably have had it all ready by this time, but when they have to put in half their time explaining over and over things that certain of the members seemed to find it impossible to comprehend, the work is necessarily somewhat retarded. It took nearly an hour to show to the satisfaction of all that it was necessary to appropriate but $7,002 50 out of the general fund to meet the expenses of loans—that of 1881 only, and that the Water Board and Gas Trustees took care of the others and allowed for them in making up their estimates of expenditures for the year.

After this had been explained for about the 'steenth time Mr. Ferrell, with that air of important severity he assumes when transacting city business, announced that he did not rely much on fancy bookkeeping; that what he banked on was practical common sense. Mr. Maxwell looked tired and said that bookkeeping was supposed to be about as coldly practical work as a man could and James Dungan, were killed and three others injured.

The narty in the coach were members of the Masonic fraternity, and were returning to this city from a visit to Dr. Boyer, of Bridesburg, the Worshipful Master of the lodge to which they belonged. Howard Gibbs, one of the irityred, did not belong to the party, but had been overtaken on the road and allowed to ride with the driver. The brief delay caused by taking on this extra passenger undoubtedly had much to do with the calamity which followed. The night was hazy, rendering objects inditiact, and it is supposed the freight train approached the crossing unperceived by those in the coach. At any rate just as the horses and the front part of the corveyance were on the westward track, the iccomotive dashed upon them.

A square below the crossing the horses were found dead and gashed to pieces, lying close together. Further up the track the wagon, dashed to choese were found dead and gashed to pieces, lying close together. Further up the track the wagon, dashed to tinder wood, was discovered in a heap, and a few feet away from it were the bodies of Women and Dungan. Both men were dead. The bodies were found about fifteen feet below the crossing, and close to them lay their fellow passengers, Smith and Wilgus, who were quite senseless, but the others, with the exception of Dr. Hale and Myers, were groaning pitfully. $15,855 09, the estimated cost of the Market street paving, which leaves $70,826 51. to f this last amount it is estimated that $23,826 54 will be derived from the 10 cent levy, and that can be used for no other purpose than new paving and sewers. The estimated revenue from that levy this year is $16,000, and to that is to be added over $5,000, a balance left over from last year. This amount subtracted from the last balance given leaves $47,409 97 to constitute the Board's general appropriation fund.
